The UW-Platteville Women's and Gender Studies Program creates new dimensions in the educational curriculum by expanding students' knowledge and awareness of women's experiences in as many areas as possible.

Women's and gender studies emphasizes the contributions of women and investigates the ways in which societal misconceptions of both sexes have been reflected in the traditional curriculum. This interdisciplinary academic field examines from a feminist perspective the challenges women in particular face. Thus, women's and gender studies ultimately provides new insights for individuals seeking to improve the quality of their own lives and of the society in which they live.

The UW-Platteville Women's and Gender Studies Program seeks to enhance the educational and career opportunities of students in traditional academic areas, as well as students with a special interest in women's and gender studies. The particular needs and concerns of part-time and continuing education students are also addressed.

All women's and gender studies courses fulfill the general education gender requirement. Some courses can double count for the ethnic, humanities, social sciences, and gender general education requirement.

UW-Platteville students can earn a Minor or a Certificate in Women's and Gender Studies.
